IRAN: Grave Danger Facing Political Prisoners Amid Escalating Regional Conflict

Political prisoners in Iran are facing imminent and unprecedented danger as the Islamic regime intensifies its brutal crackdown following Israeli military strikes on June 13, 2025.

In the wake of Israel's targeted attacks on Iran's nuclear facilities and high-ranking officials, Iran's major cities have seen a sweeping deployment of Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) and other security forces. This militarized presence is not for public protection, it is a calculated move by a regime in crisis, aimed at suppressing dissent and silencing any perceived opposition during a period of extreme vulnerability.

While the Iranian regime's long-standing record of repression, arbitrary detention, and executions is well documented, the current crisis is being exploited to unleash a new wave of terrifying level of oppression. Dozens of civilians have already been detained for actions as minor as photographing or filming the aftermath of the strikes—accused without evidence of “collaboration with Israel.”

Inside the notorious Evin Prison, especially in Ward, authorities have cut off all phone communications, severing prisoners' only link to the outside world. As of June 15, 2025, the Women's Ward of Evin remains under a communication blackout. Families are left in anguish, unable to reach their loved ones, while prisoners remain isolated in an environment marked by fear and repression.

At the same time, the IRGC has escalated its threats and intimidation against journalists and human rights defenders. Nationwide internet restrictions have further obstructed the flow of information, creating dangerous conditions where atrocities can occur in total darkness.

We are deeply alarmed by the heightened risk of torture and execution facing political prisoners. Many are being held in facilities directly controlled by the IRGC, placing them at grave risk in the event of further military escalation or as targets of retaliation by a regime desperate to reassert control.

We, the undersigned, urgently call on the United Nations, the European Union, world governments, and all international human rights organizations to take immediate and decisive action.

The regime in Iran must be compelled to:

- Immediately and unconditionally stop all executions and release all political prisoners.

Time is running out. The world must act now to protect those whose lives hang in the balance.
